Koenig Strasse 29 is a mixed-used tower located in the commercial district of Stuttgart. It is a renovation project with retail units, offices and luxury penthouses. The project embodies the innovative concept of “Office of the Future 2.0” and flexible multi-functional spaces. The facade design is equipped with energy generating state of the art window technology. The building is designed to bridge the bordering front and rear streets. The project upon completion will provide maximum street to building shopping experience, and will add a profound texture along Koenig Strasse.
